● Time Management and Self-Development: I successfully balanced a rigorous high school curriculum with 5 hours per week dedicated to self-directed learning. Through my own initiative, I completed three online courses covering the fundamentals of marketing and basic accounting. ● Leadership and Organization in a School Setting: I founded and led a study group of six peers. We reorganized our revision schedules and delegated tasks based on each student's individual strengths. This effort led to a notable improvement in the entire group's final exam scores and helped us overcome cumulative learning challenges. ● Individual Resource Planning: I managed the personal budget allocated for our academic year's graduation projects. By comparing various suppliers and minimizing material waste, I saved 15% of the available budget while maintaining the high quality of our final presentation.
