1. Differences in statistical methodologies and coverage scope: The unemployment rate indicator is based on field surveys conducted in accordance with international standards that measure individuals' actual labor market status.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com