

conduct a comprehensive study comparing the performance of two solar systems: one integrated with the proposed enhancements and the other without, with the aim of substantiating the effectiveness of the proposed system in augmenting energy production