

There is much competition in the mobile telecoms industry. This requires the mobile user experience (UE) designer to explore and structure complex interaction design solutions. Mobile devices are increasingly feature-rich—they include mega-pixel cameras, music players, media galleries and downloaded applications.