

The poet looked at ascottis girl reaping and singing alone in the field either stop here to listen or pass softly so as not to disturb her. Alone she cuts and ties the grain together while she is singing a sad song .
Listen for the whole valley is full of the echoing of her song