

Providing career growth opportunities There is nothing more important than opportunities for career growth and development, and no one wants to be stuck in their position doing the same things all the time. For example, you can offer e-courses, seminars, social learning programs, mentoring, internal training courses, or offer scholarships for higher education