

Smart cities are characterized by the effective use of data, analysis and technology to improve the experience of the population and promote sustainability, efficiency and a green space through the Green Cities Initiative