

In recent years, the population growth in Jeddah has been increasing rapidly along with traffic problems in a city where the demand for and density of car travel is very high due to the absence of public transportation.