

The effects of that change in policies are proven retrospectively and these effects are evidenced by the retained earnings within equity