

Prepaid costs for services, for example advertising or marketing costs for campaigns that have been prepared but not launched, can still be recognized as a prepayment