

Now students don't need to carry heavy books: they can browse collaborative media sources like Wikipedia anytime, and get to know about it. It serves as a dictionary not only for students, but also for the instructors. Students can give online presentations; submit assignments to a common page, receive feedback from teachers while being sick at home etc