

If the rate of change of B is known, the magnetic field, B , can be measured by measuring the induced .emf