

arbitration is a dispute resolution process in which the disputing parties present their case to a third party intermediary who examine all the evidence and then make a decision for the parties. this decision is usually binding like court based adjudication arbitration is adversarial