

Hussein is my hero because of his hard work to achieve his goals, even though he had many difficulties to achieve them. The life of Taha Hussein is a good example to everyone; he was born in disadvantaged situations but still was successful in his life. If I was him, I would've been discouraged because of the surrounding conditions. He was poor, blind, and was offered bad education, but became the minister of education and earned his doctorate from France