

I have taken a lot of risks in my life. Even though, it was challenging where I couldn't communicate with people because of my bad English skills. I was scared to go because I didn't know anyone there. Also, I couldn't speak English very well. When we went to America it was so hard to communicate with people. But with time my English has improved. Some of them has a good effect and others has negative effect. One of the risks I have taken is when I lived in America for four years. When I was fourteen years old, my mother decided to continue studying master. Me and my father decided to go with her. That was a big risk because it will change our lives so much. It was really big challenge. But with time, I started learning English. My English proved so much. This risk was a positive risk where I learned English and .discovered a new culture