

A novel WDM–RoF system scheme for the next generation 5G mobile communication is proposed in this paper. The establishment of S–CS can achieve centralized management of BS operations, improve the reasonable scheduling and allocation of resources, simplify the complexity and lessen the power consumption of the base station.