

It involves understanding system architecture, identifying integration points, creating test cases,.5.3.3
.executing tests, and documenting results