

This section or chapter discusses the related work in relation to applying machine learning techniques for text classification , focusing on natural language input data. After stop word removal, a feature selection process is conducted to select relevant and effective features for improved news classification