

A program that acts as an intermediary between a user of a computer and the computer hardware

Make the Execute user programs and make solving user problems easierOperating system goals:

Use the computer hardware in an efficient mannercomputer system convenient to use