

This may occur as a result of oversight or repetition in the recording or publishing process, and this causes huge distortions in the company's financial statements, which most likely take a long time to discover and address, but because we discovered the problem at the same time