

There is a lot of habits are changing some of their is positive such as paying attention to diet to prevent diseases and some are negative like street food or processed food and eating at a very late time of the night