

The Mediterranean Sea is considered to be a biodiversity "hotspot" characterized by an unig ses diversity for a temperate sea It contains around 7% of the total global matine fish species with a wide range of ban temperate and tropical species being present