

Geolocation API: This API allows web applications to retrieve the geographic location of the user's device, provided that the user grants permission