

Ethical principles guide decision-making processes, ensuring that the interests of stakeholders--such as .employees, customers, and the community--are respected