

Children Who Experience Bullying Bullied children may have detrimental effects on their physical, social, emotional, intellectual, and mental health. Health issues reduced involvement in school and academic achievement as measured by GPA and scores on standardized tests. They have a higher probability of skipping, missing, or quitting school.