

John's dog was a bad dog. He bit people frequently. John tried to instruct the dog to behave, but it never worked. That also didn't work. John didn't want to punish the dog. This made the dog very content. One day, John's dog strolled through the village and met some other dogs. John's dog shook his head. The other dogs said, "You have the wrong idea of what makes you popular. Of course they like your bell. It tells them where you are so they can avoid you. You aren't able to bite them anymore!" You see, being popular isn't something positive when it's for the wrong reason. John had great concern about this. It was not an appropriate way for a dog to behave. His friends in the village always expected the dog to bite them. The news about John's dog spread through the village. None of the people wanted to go to John's house. "How will I stop my dog's bad habit
