

Frames is a type of structures which are often composed of pin-connected multiforce members, i.e., members that are subjected to more than two forces."Engineering Mechanics" Twelfth edition Frames are used to support loads. R. C. Hibbeler