

Wounds can also be categorized by the type of tissue within the wound: –The wound contains black necrotic tissue –The wound is yellow and sloughy --The wound is red and granulating – The wound is starting to display signs of the formation of new pink epithelial tissue The wound is green and infected