

Utility-First Approach: Tailwind CSS provides a utility-first approach, allowing you to style elements directly in the markup using utility classes, which can significantly speed up the development process. Performance: It generates minimal CSS, reducing the final file size and improving website load times, which is crucial for performance and SEO.