

How about a door and a walkway on the receding side of the building? We can use that to help -5 determine the appropriate height of the second door. Check out the gray dotted line above. No problem