Corporate high-tech investigations involve several procedures, including identification, preservation, extraction, analysis, and reporting of digital evidence. For data recovery workstations and software, requirements include write blockers, forensic imaging software, forensic analysis software, data carving tools, hash calculation tools, virtual machines, and robust hardware. Virtual machines provide isolated environments for analyzing potentially malicious software or files, and robust hardware ensures high-performance analysis.

lakhasly.com © تم تلخيص النص بواسطة موقع لخصلي