

However, the company compensated for this by obtaining the insurance that it had purchased before the accident, which amounted to about 250 million US dollars