

there is a significant gap between rich and poor countries because of many reasons such as : social, economic and political inequality in addition to the unequal distribution of wealth.to conclude, the economic gap between countries has numerous negative effects on all the people on our planet.today there is an urgent need for managing the world's resources because this inequality in sharing wealth led to conflict over the planet's natural resources ,and resulted in an ecological crisis that threatens our life .on earth