

The factory's steam system scored 42.4% (144 points) on the Steam System Scoping Tool (SSST) benchmark, well below the maximum of 340 points. These findings emphasize areas for improvement and highlight the factory's strengths, suggesting a pathway to align with best practices in steam system management and enhance energy efficiency. This score indicates substantial potential for improving energy efficiency through better operational practices.