

Contamination of information that is circulated through social media platforms is a real and practical" problem that exists and has a great danger, and a lot of work has been done in the past years to get rid of this problem"[11]. "It can be said that what makes the prospects of social media threats more dangerous is that it has become increasingly easy, even for the average user, to exploit social media for malicious purposes. Organizations and individuals are also finding it difficult to accurately detect, identify, predict, and prevent malicious exploitation of social media"[9]. "One of the problems of the internet is also the fact that malicious people exploit internet services for malicious purposes, such as recruiting, .[organizing, and managing malicious businesses, or collecting money in illegal ways"[12