

Private companies undertake such transactions for profit; governments may undertake them either for profit or for other reasons