

A fear of water, like any phobia, can be challenging, but there are effective ways to address it. Seeking support from a therapist who specializes in phobias can provide personalized strategies and guidance.