

Stacking two or more different 2D materials on top of each other such as transition metal dichalcogenides (TMDC) graphene or different heterostructures of TMDC may improve their electrical and optoelectronic properties and hence improve their performance and capabilities as photodetectors, making the 2D vdW materials heterogeneous