

also known as the permanent way, is the structure consisting of two parallel rails having specified distance in between them and fastened to sleepers which are embedded in the layer of ballast, which is RAILWAY TRACK and fastened to sleepers which are embedded in the layer of ballast, which is spread over formation. It enables trains to move by providing a dependable surface for their wheels to roll upon.