

Cellulose, a plant polysaccharide, has various uses including construction, clothing, explosives, and films. Cellulose has two crystalline forms, cellulose I and II, with cellulose II found in marine algae and formed from cellulose I treatment with aqueous sodium hydroxide. It's also used in pharmaceuticals as a .non-toxic, stable, and renewable excipient