

Several chemicals were selected as fixatives secondary to their potential actions of forming cross-links both within and between proteins and nucleic acids