

The management of food waste in Kuwait is facing significant challenges like limitation of infrastructure, low awareness of them public as well as other economic barriers. However, these challenges can be overcome by the improvement in the infrastructure through technological integration, engagement of the community as well as reforms in the governmental policies.