

Comprehensively addresses the theoretical and practical aspects of discovering, analyzing, modeling, verifying, testing, and describing requirements for all types of systems