

The story takes place in India and Australia, and follows Saroo's journey from his separation from his family in a small Indian village to his life with his adoptive Australian family