One beautiful morning in July, my friend Saif and I decided to spend a special day at the local zoo.It was a scary sight, so I shouted loudly so that he would be afraid of me. The zoo guards heard me and came to help me. The moral of this story is that you must follow the laws and rules to protect yourself and others, and heed the warnings.While I was there, a stupid idea came to my mind, which was to break the rules and enter the dangerous area where the dangerous tigers live.
