

Procedures: the rules or guidelines people follow

People: end users and information technology staff

Software: programs that tell the computer how to do its work –when using software, hardware, and data

Hardware: the equipment that processes the data to they process data to convert it into information

Data: the raw, unprocessed facts including text, numbers, images, and sounds.create information

Connectivity allows computers to connect and share information