

ASEAN, which was established for achieving stability, developing economic, political and cultural cooperation in the region, was evaluated a sui generis pattern of regionalism. Especially after 1997 The Asia Financial Crisis, countries of the region who give importance to strength the economic interdependence, increased normative and ideational integration activities besides economic integration