

Civilians injured in the conflict and those suffering from everyday health problems are increasingly unable to access basic care. Almost half of Gaza's 36 hospitals are even partially functional--and they're understaffed, lacking proper medical supplies and overwhelmed with patients.