

Much tourism development occurs in developing countries, bringing economic opportunities to local communities