

PLANS, which are the setting of environmental goals and processes necessary to achieve results, and before the organized environmental policy, where it is recommended to carry out a preliminary review to assist in identifying all elements of the current process and, if possible, for future operations that are likely to interact with the environment known as (aspects of the environment) where this review The environment assists in defining the environmental goals and objectives and that they must be measurable, they evaluate any relevant requirements